A Friend Supports the Library

-  A Friend of the Hudson Library contributes funds in acquiring essential and additional materials for its service to the public.
-  A Friend may also contribute volunteer hours to the bookstore for sorting and selling donated items. These heavily discounted books and other materials are sold in the Friends Bookstore which allow:
  - Children to bring home their very own books;
  - Adults to find books from the classics to modern fiction;
  - Travelers, cooks, historians and others to add to their collection;
  - Educators and other professionals to find unexpected treasures on the shelves; and
  - Everyone to purchase items for gift giving throughout the year.
-  Friends collaborate on initiatives sponsored by the library; of special interest are programs encouraging children to read and author- lead talks for all ages.

Executive Library Director of the Hudson Library and Historical Society, Leslie Polott, believes that “the dedicated members of the Friends of the Hudson Library play an essential role in supporting the Library’s mission to enrich and transform lives.”
